Facility Snapshot/Description

The Jackson Parish Correctional Center, located in Jonesboro, Louisiana, is owned by LaSalle Corrections and operated by LaSalle via a contract with the Jackson Parish Sheriff's Office. The Jackson Parish Sheriff's Office has an IGSA with ICE. The facility, which is approximately eighty miles east/southeast of Shreveport, Louisiana, and seventy miles north of Alexandria, Louisiana, began housing ICE detainees on March 15, 2019. Original construction of the Jackson Parish Correctional Center was completed in 2007; a second building was constructed in 2010. Low and low-medium custody male and female ICE detainees are housed at the facility along with low and medium custody male local and state non-ICE detainees. [REDACTED]

The fenced perimeter of the facility covers forty acres of land. The facility itself consists of two large buildings connected by covered walkways. Building 2 was built in 2007 and Building 1 was constructed in 2010. The perimeter is secured by two twelve-foot chain link fences enhanced with razor ribbon at the top and bottom of the fences and patrolled perpetually by an armed officer in a vehicle. The facility has thirteen general population housing units with capacities ranging from forty to 100 beds. ICE detainees occupy eleven of the thirteen housing units. All housing units occupied by ICE detainees are dormitory style beds. The general population housing units receive indirect supervision from roving officers and an officer in the housing unit control center. There are eight cells designated for special management; four for males and four for females.

Indoor and outdoor recreation is available for the general population seven days per week for at least one hour each day. There are five large outdoor recreation yards inside the perimeter. Housing units provide adequate open dayroom space for their capacity. Detainees spend their waking hours socializing in the dayrooms or moving freely between the dayroom and their bunk. ICE detainees do not commingle with non-ICE detainees. Each housing unit is equipped with tables and seats, televisions, telephones, board games, and a microwave oven. Additionally, the facility has four PlayStation consoles which are rotated throughout the housing units. There are no restrictions on the number of visits a detainee may receive in a week; all visits are contact. Detainees participate in the voluntary work program.

The inspection team observed the housing units and common areas of the facility during the inspection; cleanliness and sanitation overall were observed to be average although some showers in male housing units were observed to be below average. The assistant OIC had these areas cleaned during the inspection. The atmosphere was calm and detainees were observed freely interacting with staff and other detainees.

Numerous detainees were interviewed; some interviews were in housing units with individuals or small groups of detainees and several were private and confidential and included detainees with limited English proficiency (LEP). Language line was used to facilitate interviews with detainees who spoke little or no English; a bilingual member of the inspection team conducted several private interviews with Spanish speaking female detainees. Interviews included detainees who had recently arrived at the facility and some who had been housed at the facility for longer periods of time. Both male and female detainees were interviewed. The detainees voiced no life-safety concerns.

Although the majority of detainees interviewed stated no issues with the food served at the facility, several did complain about the lack of fresh fruit and the quality and quantity of food provided. The Safety SME reviewed the nutritional analysis which indicated that the menus meet the Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA). Observations of the preparation of food trays supported conformity to the nutritionally approved menus. Quality of food was observed to be in accordance with industry standards. The OIC stated that fresh fruit is not served at the facility due to security concerns regarding the fermenting of the fruit.

Some detainees voiced concerns regarding medical issues. The Medical SME reviewed the medical files of each of these detainees and found they had been seen by a medical provider and received appropriate treatment and follow-up.

Detainee telephone services are provided by Correct Solutions. All other services are provided by LaSalle Corrections.

ICE detainees do not incur medical co-pays.

Areas of Concern/Significant Observation

There were no areas of concern or significant observations.

Recommended Rating and Justification
