Facility Snapshot/Description

The Sheriff Al Cannon Detention Center (SACDC) is located in a business district of North Charleston, South Carolina and is operated by the Charleston County Sheriff's Office. The detention center was originally built in 1966 and has been expanded three times. The facility consists of three buildings, Towers A, B and C. In total, SACDC includes thirty-two housing units which include a behavioral management unit, protective custody unit, three female units, ICE detainee unit, work detail unit, Department of Alcohol and other Drug Abuse Services unit, podular remote general population units and medical infirmary.

During the inspection, ICE detainees were housed in one dormitory. There were no detainees housed in either special management unit or medical unit. ICE detainees are not housed with detainees from other jurisdictions.

Each housing unit has its own outdoor recreation area adjacent to the dayroom. Indoor and outdoor recreation is available daily from 7:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. The dayroom is furnished with televisions, telephones, board games, kiosks and reading materials.

The inspectors interviewed each ICE detainee during the inspection. The interviews were confidential. Each detainee voiced a similar complaint regarding food portions. The Safety SME followed up with the food services department and determined that the concerns were unfounded. The menus were reviewed and found to meet standard guidelines. One detainee claimed that he had recently received "some pills" from the medical staff and wasn't sure if they were helping him. The Medical SME reviewed the detainee's chart and determined that his prescription was correct. Another detainee was visibly distressed during the interview. The Medical SME reported the concern to medical staff. The detainee was scheduled to see a mental health specialist.

The atmosphere in the ICE housing unit was calm. Detainees freely engaged the inspection team, facility staff and the ICE officer. Facility sanitation was observed to be acceptable in all areas, with the exception of the kitchen. The kitchen was observed to be in need of general cleaning. ICE detainees are not charged a medical copayment. Food service is provided by Aramark. Carolina Center for Occupational Health (CCOH) provides medical services. All other services are provided by Charleston County employees.
